

Report of Orientation Programs of Guru Nanak College, Budhlada

Guru Nanak College, Budhlada, holds a strong commitment to fostering a positive and disciplined learning environment. To uphold this commitment, the college has been organizing various programs cantered around its code of conduct. This report aims to provide an overview of these programs, their implementation, and their impact on the college community. The college regularly organises orientation programmes for faculty and students for the effective implementation of college code. At the beginning of each academic year, orientation sessions are conducted for both new and returning students. These sessions emphasize the college's code of conduct, outlining expectations regarding behavior, academic integrity, respect for diversity, and the importance of community engagement. During the orientation programmes Department Heads, faculty, convenors and coordinators of different cells and committees provide a detailed information regarding college discipline, college regulations, participation of students, and the functioning as well as various activities organised their respective departments, cells and committees. These programs aim to instill values aligned with the college's code of conduct and promote responsible citizenship among students. The college administration, in collaboration with code of conduct committee, faculty members and student representatives, plans and coordinates the code of conduct programs. This involves setting objectives, designing curriculum content, and scheduling activities throughout the academic calendar. Promotion of the programs is done through various channels, including social media, notice boards, classroom announcements etc. The code of conduct programs organized by Guru Nanak College play a crucial role in shaping the college experience and nurturing responsible citizens. Through a comprehensive approach encompassing orientation sessions, awareness campaigns, and student engagement activities, the college instills values of integrity, respect, and social responsibility. Some of the orientation programmes organised during the session 2023-23 are as follows:

An induction program for fresher students, also known as an orientation program, is designed to introduce new students to their academic institution and provide them with information and guidance to help them settle into their new academic environment. Department of Computer Science organised an induction programme for students on 7th Sept 2022. The objectives of the programme were to welcome and familiarize students with the campus, facilities, and services available, to introduce students to the academic policies, procedures, and requirements of the institution, to introduce students to the faculty and staff, and provide them with opportunities to interact with them, to provide students information on co and extracurricular activities, student organizations, and other opportunities for their involvement on campus.

College Principle Discussing with faculty regarding classes, discipline, activities to be organised etc. during the semester

College Faculty planning for the upcoming end semester exams:

Department of Science organised an orientation program on 22 August 2022 to welcome new students, faculty, and staff, aiming to provide a comprehensive overview of the department's structure, resources, and opportunities. The session commenced with introductions to key personnel, followed by an outline of academic programs and curriculum requirements. Participants were briefed on all the available facilities, support services, and research opportunities, emphasizing the department's commitment to fostering academic and research excellence by Dr Jatinder Singh. Additionally, networking opportunities and extracurricular activities were highlighted to promote community engagement by Dr Rishi Kumar. The interactive session was concluded with a Q&A segment, allowing participants to seek further information and guidance. Overall, the orientation program served as a vital platform for acquainting individuals with the department's ethos, expectations, and avenues for growth.
